Reports on Talk With De Gaulle

No Peace Bids, RFK Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy says he did not bring any Vietnam war peace feelers from Europe but he told President Johnson the French could provide meaningful contacts with Hanoi.

Kennedy said after a White House conference with Johnson Monday, "I never received the impression that I was any recipient of any peace feelers."

This momentarily quieted, but did not entirely erase, a flurry of speculation which grew out of reports in Newsweek magazine that the New York Democrat was bringing back at least some second-hand information that might be helpful in arranging peace talks.

Kennedy told Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach earlier Monday that French President Charles de Gaulle had reiterated to Kennedy his position that there was little chance for peace unless the United States was willing to announce a schedule for withdrawal of its troops from Vietnam.

Kennedy repeated this assessment to Johnson when Katzenbach accompanied him to the White House.

The New York senator interpreted this as indicating that De Gaulle was not prepared to take any practical steps at this time to get negotiations going.

But Kennedy was said to have found the lower echelons of the French government, where contact is maintained directly with Hanoi envoys, much more flexible in their approach to the problem.

Although he would not discuss his talk with Johnson, Kennedy said in an interview that his remarks in Europe that the next two or three weeks may be crucial in the search for peace were based on three points:

— The truce beginning with the Vietnamese lunar New Year Wednesday and lasting until Sunday morning could produce

Traffic Light Ordinance On Council Table

Legislation necessary to get Salem moving toward compliance with the state law requiring uniform traffic signals throughout Ohio will be introduced by Councilman Ralph Zimmerman at a meeting of Salem City Council tonight.

The proposed ordinance would authorize Safety Director Clarence W. Wright to advertise for bids "for the purchase of ten, more or less, three-section, four-way traffic signals with eight-inch glass lens, in red, amber and green." The ordinance is proposed as an emergency measure.

All traffic control devices must comply with the standards and specifications in the state manual, according to Fred Tarbox, engineer of the Bureau of Traffic, Ohio Department of Highways.

The uniform system of traffic control devices requires combinations of red, yellow and green lights whether or not a green arrow is also used.

Salem's present system consists primarily of stop and go combinations, eliminating yellow "caution" lights. Thus, the standard Salem signal at the present is two - deck except where a third deck is used for green arrows.

Therefore, the present two-deck signals apparently will become three-deck and the three-deck devices will become four-deck.

In 1965 the Ohio legislature amended the section on local traffic control devices by eliminating "hereafter" in the clause that stated, "All traffic control devices hereafter erected on a public road, street or

Council May Decide to Buy 2 Properties

An ordinance that would appropriate $22,500 from the income tax capital improvement fund to purchase the former Johnston property at 232 and 242 S. Ellsworth Ave. will be presented to Salem City Council for its consideration tonight.

Purchase of the two lots is proposed in order to provide space for future expansion of municipal operations, according to Councilman J. S. Wilson, chairman of the Council's building and grounds committee. Wilson indicated that his committee has made no definite recommendation as to the future use of the property. However, he said "We hope it can be used for future growth of the City Hall or for additional off - street parking."

Councilman Wilson pointed out that conversion of the property to municipal use need not be made immediately. "We have no immediate plans for demolition of the two homes now on the lots," he said. One of the buildings is of brick construction and the other is frame.

Wilson said since the two lots are located at the rear of the present City Hall tract, he feels it is advisable to consider purchase of the property while it is available as a part of the Johnston estate which is now being settled.

Police Appointment Test Slated Feb. 23

The vacancy created in the Salem Police Department by recent retirement of Lt. Robert Kirchgessner and promotion of First Class Patrolman Norman Flick to the lieutenant's position will be filled through a Civil Service examination to be given at 7:30 p.m. Thursday Feb. 23 in City Hall.

In order to fill the position at least three eligible men must be certified by the Civil Service Commission. The actual appointment is made by the Board of Control, which consists of Mayor Dean Cranmer, Safety Director Clarence W. Wright and Service Director James Feiler. Only one person is now on the eligibility list from previous examinations.

Applications for the position are available at the Police Department. Completed applications must be returned to the department by Tuesday, Feb. 21, in order for tests to be prepared for the following Thursday.

Blizzard Hits Atlantic Coast

Snow Snarls Ground, Air Transportation

All New York City Schools Closed; Mercury Nosedives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A blizzard rolled up the Atlantic Coast today and swirled through the New York City area with snow, howling winds and subfreezing temperatures.

Ground and air transportation were badly snarled from Kentucky to Massachusetts. At Washington, National Airport closed and operations were slowed at Dulles International Airport.

Roads and schools were closed in parts of seven states, and blizzard conditions were forecast for as far north as Springfield, Mass.

More than two inches of snow had fallen in New York City at 8 a.m. and wind-blown flakes were piling up faster in some suburbs.

Winds gusted through the city's skyscraper canyons at 30 to 40 miles an hour in a 15 degree temperature.

The blizzard had formed off the Carolina coast and swept northeastward during the predawn hours.

All of New York City's public schools were ordered shut in the first onslaught of the storm that disrupted traffic and caused long delays to office-bound commuters.

The city called a snow emergency and ordered all available equipment into the streets.

Similar conditions were reported all along the Eastern Seaboard.

The storm quickly iced roads in southeastern New York State and rushed north to hit towns shivering in subzero temperatures. During the night the mercury hit -16 at Plattsburg and -12 at Watertown.

The Weather Bureau said the snow would total more than eight inches in New York City and from six to eight inches almost everywhere along the Eastern Seaboard.

High winds quickly caused drifting across the region.

Gusts of winds up to 30 miles an hour slammed heavy snow into Washington D.C. By midmorning the snow was six inches deep and drifting.

The snow forced nearly all school's in communities neighboring the nation's Capitol to close. The closings included the University of Maryland at College Park.

All emergency snow plans were put into effect in an effort to ease morning rush-hour traffic. The snow was expected to total at least eight inches by midafternoon.

Snow emergency plans brought crews and equipment to highways in 15 Maryland counties.

Heavy snow warnings were posted for Connecticut, Massachusetts and all of New England as the storm moved north.

Gale warnings were hoisted all along the Atlantic Coast.

Rain — seven inches of it — drenched the carnival city of New Orleans on the eve of its annual big day and forced the evacuation of 150 families who found themselves wading through a foot of water in their living rooms.

Near-freezing temperatures forced New Orleans' shivering beauties to abandon plans to appear in brief costumes. Despite it all, up to a million celebrators were expected to pack the city's central area today.

Weather problems elsewhere were more severe.

Heavy snow fell Monday in Virginia, Tennessee and West Virginia and warnings of more snow were posted from eastern Tennessee and the mountains of North Carolina to southeast Ohio and southern New Jersey.

Massachusetts and Rhode Island were also on the heavy snow list. South of the snow belt, mixtures of snow, sleet and

Barber Has Plenty to Talk About

Zanesville Man Snaps Photo Of UFO

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Believe it or not: A barber who liked to chat about flying saucers suddenly finds one hovering directly over his house—just when he happens to be carrying his camera.

Ditter, 40, cuts hair in a Main Street shop here sometimes adorned by space maps reflecting his amateur astronomy hobby.

He has been displaying his pictures of the unidentified flying object to friends and patrons for some time. But he didn't want widespread publicity, he said, figuring he might be tagged either a screwball or a hoaxer.

Eventually, however, Dr. Benjamin Gilliotte, a Zanesville physician who belongs to the National Investigating Committee

Soviet Embassy Employes Trapped by Chinese Mobs

MOSCOW (AP) — Shouting Chinese mobs demonstrated outside the Soviet Embassy in Peking for the 12th straight day today, trapping Soviet employes inside the building, the Czechoslovak news agency C.T.K. reported from the Chinese capital.

C.T.K said the Chinese Foreign Ministry warned Monday night that the "safety of Soviet citizens outside the embassy cannot be ensured"

The agency said Polish and Czechoslovak diplomats came to the aid of the embattled embassy staff today, driving their cars through the embassy gates with difficulty to bring them food.

C.T.K said the new outburst of rioting followed a fairly quiet night. Soviet diplomats who had been detained in a bus for several hours by angry mobs Monday were finally allowed to enter their embassy. The diplomats were returning from the airport where planes evacuated their families amid more angry demonstrations.

The embassy staff repaired the iron entrance gate which was broken during Monday's rioting and reinforced it with a chain.

Rampaging Red Guards, retaliating against the roughing up by Soviet police of Chinese students and embassy employes in Moscow, hanged Soviet leaders in effigy. Tadashi Nogami, Peking correspondent for the big Japanese paper Asahi Shimbun, said the demonstrations were "really ferocious" but he did not think they would lead to a diplomatic break between China and the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union and Poland, which said its ambassador to Peking was insulted during the airport outburst, filed angry protests.

Nogami said the Peking demonstrations appeared out of control but that there was some sort of order because leaders circulated among the crowds issuing instructions.

The official New China News Agency reported that about 40,000 Maoists held an anti-Soviet demonstration in Urumchi, the capital of Sinkiang Province bordering the Soviet Union, where considerable opposition to Mao has been reported.

The agency said anti-Soviet demonstrations also took place in the Ili and Ining Districts of Sinkiang.

Reports of developments in the power struggle between Mao Tse-tung and President Liu Shao-chi were scarce today. Peking radio said a company of army troops loyal to Mao had to be called on to dislodge spear-throwing anti-Maoists holed up in a building in Changchun, a big industrial city in Manchuria.

Ohio Senate Vote on Reapportionment Due

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Majority Republicans called for an Ohio Senate vote today on their legislative apportionment plan and at the same time mapped new strategy for getting it on a statewide primary ballot in May.

The plan for use of existing legislative districts until the next federal census and an administration proposal for an Ohio Bond Commission both must have voter approval. The bond bill is pending in the House.

Leaders reviewed parlimentary strategy as the lawmakers returned from weekend recess and received 21 new bills—including one to establish a state banking department and make sweeping revisions in Ohio's banking laws.

U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr. of Cincinnati appeared before a joint committee to explain a federal tax sharing with the states. U. S. House Minority Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan had planned to appear with Taft but cancelled out because of bad weather.

In other developments, the Senate received bills allowing exemption from garnishments of the first $300 monthly income in familes of four or more—at present only 80 per cent is exempt— and allow school boards to pay for group life insurance for their employes.

New House bills would appropriate $100 yearly clothing allowances for welfare children, require annual review of grants for dependent children, and permit a living person or a dead person's survivors to donate their bodies for medical research.

Rep. Ralph E. Fisher R-24 Wayne introduced an emergency bill to hike the pay of cabinet members to salaries ranging from $22,880 to $27,539 a year and to boost the pay of an estimated 900 state employes earning less than $1.40 an hour, the new federal minimum wage. Both increases had been in-

HANOVERTON — Village Council met last night with all members present and voted to purchase signs and 75 tons of slag for a parking lot specifically designated for trailer-trucks.

A blinking light for the police cruiser will also be purchased, and radar equipment will be demonstrated at an April meeting.

Council voiced approval of a new light recently installed at the intersection of Routes 9 and 30.

Fire Destroys Home South Of Lisbon

LISBON — Samuel and Eva Thompson and their three children lost their home and possessions in a fire at 8 p.m. Monday on Route 164, four miles south of here.

West Point volunteer firemen blamed an overheated coal furnace and said the loss would be approximaely $4,000 for the house and $2,500 for the contents.

Mrs. Thompson said she was asleep on the living room couch and wakened to see the curtains on fire from flames shooting from the register.

She called her daughters, Darlene, 7; Penny, 6, and Priscilla Lynn, 2, who were playing upstairs and ran next door to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gbur where she called the fire department.

Mrs. Thompson said the house was all in flames by the time West Point and Lisbon firemen arrived. Neighbors saved a washer and drier but everything else was destroyed.

Thompson, a truck driver for Cal Carney of West Point, was away from home.

The family was buying the six-room, two-story frame house from John Walters of Columbiana on a land contract. They had some insurance on the house but none on the possessions.

They are staying temporarily with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Thompson of Oakmont, East Liverpool RD 3.

Bill Would Improve Ohio Banking Laws

Among co-sponsors of the 179-page bill are Sens. John Longsworth, R-Salem, and Charles J. Carney, D-Youngstown.

Soviet Attitude on Viet Unchanged

LONDON (AP) — No shift in the Soviet attitude toward the war in Vietnam emerged today from the opening of talks between Prime Ministers Alexei Kosygin and Harold Wilson.

Informants said Wilson and Kosygin restated their familiar positions on the Southeast Asian war at the first private sessions of the Soviet premier's week-long visit to Britain.

They talked for three hours Monday in the Cabinet room at No. 10 Downing St. That was an hour more than scheduled, but there was no hint that this indicated any progress toward agreements. A spokesman said it meant they were "usefully occupied in their time."

A news blackout was imposed on the discussions, and some diplomatic commentators took this as a good sign. However, Soviet sources said Kosygin arrived from Moscow ready to press the Communist position that the United States must stop bombing North Vietnam before any peace talks can start.

Wilson, who reportedly had consulted with President Johnson shortly before Kosygin's arrival, favors a new and prolonged pause in the bombing as a method of clearing the air for some new peace initiative. There was no hint here of the U.S. attitude. Officials refused to disclose the nature of the exchanges between Washington and London.

Kosygin and Wilson scheduled 18 hours together, which would

Wellsville Firm Awarded Primary Ballots Contract

The Wellsville Publishing Co. of Wellsvile was awarded a contract Monday afternoon by the County Election Board to supply ballots for the municipal primaries May 2.

The Wellsville firm, the lone bidder, submitted an $1,182.56 bid to furnish party ballots in five communities. It said ballots for special questions and issues will cost $4,044.40 if two proposed state amendments are submitted. It set the cost of the state ballots at $1,374.

The state legislature has debated the question of submitting issues that would establish a state building commission and make permanent Ohio's current legislative apportionment. If the statewide issues are filed, every polling place in Ohio would be required to be open on May 2. If not, there would be voting only in cities and villages holding primaries.

Columbiana County will have two-party primaries only in East Liverpool and Wellsville. Only Republican primaries are slated in East Palestine, Leetonia and Lisbon. No party primaries are due in Salem or Columbiana under a "no contest" law. However, Salem may be required to keep its polls open on May 2 if the city goes ahead with plans for a vote on renewal of a levy for parks and recreation.

The Election Board agreed yesterday to use the regular six-member precinct staffs in all communities which will have party primaries. It made no decision on the size of the staffs in precincts where only special issues are at stake. State law allows a so-called "economy plan" in such instances, utilizing only four member precinct staffs.

If the statewide issues are certified in time for a primary vote, Columbiana County will be required to staff all 168 of its polling places.

The Election Board also awarded a contract yesterday to the Columbus Blank Book Co. of Columbus to furnish poll books for both the primaries and the November general election. The cost will be $25 per precinct for the two elections, plus $19.40 for any special elections.

The Election Board also granted ballot places to all candidates who filed in advance of the deadline last Wednesday—75 Democrats and 78 Republicans, plus two Independents who will run in November.

All four members attended the meeting. They are Charles A. Pike of Lisbon, G. William Brokaw of East Liverpool and Carl L. Stacey and Don R. Gosney, both of Columbiana.

Ford Asks Tax-Sharing In Crime War

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, in what seems likely to become the GOP response to most new federal aid proposals, says the best way to finance a nationwide war on crime is by federal tax-sharing.

President Johnson asked Congress Monday for federal spending of $50 million next year and perhaps $300 million in 1969 to help states and cities fight crime.

But Ford said "a portion of federal revenue rebated to the states could be used in combination with state and local funds to greatly expand and improve local law enforcement and sharply reduce crime rates across the nation."

The GOP leader previously has called for financing federal aid-to-education by a tax-sharing measure under which 3 per cent of federal income tax revenue would be returned to the states with no strings attached.

House Democratic Leader Carl B. Albert urged "speedy enactment" of Johnson's proposals which he called "an ambitious program which will move the attack against crime forward on many fronts."

But Ford issued a statement in which he said Johnson's message "focuses on a number of important problem areas but neglects some key points."

He renewed his call for legislation aimed at persons who cross state boundaries trying to incite violence and criticized Johnson's recommendations on wiretapping and firearms, signaling what is expected to be strong opposition in Congress to the two proposals.

The President urged the outlawing of all wiretapping, public and private, except in the interest of national security.

Hoffa Makes New Bid to Stay Out of Prison

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa makes another attempt in federal court today to stay out of prison.

Hoffa is appealing the denial of his motion for a new trial on a jury-tampering charge. The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals hears arguments on the case.

Hoffa also has petitioned the U.S. Supreme Court directly to throw out his conviction because the government allegedly tapped his telephone and his lawyers' telephones during the Chattanooga, Tenn., trial. The Justice Department denied that charge last week.

The appeals court gave attorneys for both sides two hours to present their arguments — twice as much time as for most hearings.

Hoffa, who was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000 after his conviction at Chattanooga in 1964, arrived in Cincinnati Monday night with his legal advisers.

The speed of the craft, launched Saturday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., was slowed Monday from 2,400 miles an hour to 1,986 m.p.h. as its direction was altered slightly into a better flight path.

A spokesman said it would arrive in the vicinity of the moon about 5 p.m. (EST) Wednesday.

At that time, officials at Langley Research Center in Virginia are to command a boosting maneuver to inject the 850-pound craft into lunar orbit.

The move is designed so that Lunar Orbiter 3 will miss the upper right edge of the lunar disk by 295 miles. The launching flight path would have taken the craft within 49 miles of the moon, considered too close for maneuvering into the orbit from which its cameras are to begin operating Feb. 15.

The vehicle's cameras are set to take new-angle pictures of potential landing sites on the lunar equator photographed earlier by Lunar Orbiters 1 and 2.

Indians' Owner Turns Down Offer For Team

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians owner Vernon B. Stouffer, who bought the American League baseball club last August for $8 million, has turned down an offer for the team that would have netted him $2 million profit, according to Tribe General Manager Gabe Paul.

Paul made the announcement at a luncheon of sales marketing executives Monday and said the prospective buyers made their bid to him "within the last three weeks."

Paul said Stouffer told him to tell the interested buyers that "the club is not for sale. They are the Cleveland Indians. They are going to stay the Cleveland Indians."

Paul said the offer came from outside Cleveland.

Leetonia Woman Injured In Crash

A Leetonia woman was hurt and three motorists were cited in four area highway mishaps Monday, the State Highway Patrol post at Lisbon reported.

Mrs. Linda L. Kyser, 23, of 375 Columbia St. was brought to Salem City Hospital for treatment of injuries received when her auto struck a utility pole on Route 14-A, two miles east of Salem, yesterday morning.

She suffered a possible head injury and a broken front tooth, the hospital said, and was released after treatment.

Officers said Mrs. Kyser's sedan drifted off the right side of the road and she lost control on the snow-covered berm and her car struck the pole at about 9:15 a.m.

The 1967 sedan of John L. Laverty, 48, of New Kensington, Pa., was damaged severely but he escaped injury in a one - car wreck at 1 p.m. on Route 62, five miles west of Damascus.

Laverty was headed west and attempted to pass another car but lost control and went off the north side of the road and struck a fence. He was cited for speed in excess of road conditions.

Ben D. Hamner, 48, of Youngstown was cited for failing to stop in the assured clear distance after his auto ran into the rear of a car driven by Wyne R. Harmon, 23, of East Palestine, at 12:25 p.m. on the Millville Hill, about half a mile east of Salem. Harmon was slowing for another car, officers said.

Frank J. Diehl, 46, of Salem RD 2 was charged with driving left of center in a mishap at 12:50 p.m. on Route 30, half a mile west of Hanoverton. Diehl was headed west intending to make a right turn but slid on snow and ice and hit the eastbound pickup truck of Carl O. Wickersham, 55, of Kensington RD 1.

Approximately 1,800 returns will be due on or before the April 15 deadline, announced Dorothy McKibbin, tax director.

Russell Hits 'Security Lag' At U.S. Air Bases In Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee said today the military is guilty of "great derelictions in security" in guarding U.S. airfields and ammunition dumps in Vietnam.

Russell said the Pentagon's announcement Monday nearly doubling the publicly acknowledged toll of U. S. aircraft in Southeast Asia indicated a security gap.

"Our operating conditions at our airfields are not good," Russell said. "We have not installed the bunker system we used in World War II to separate parked planes from each other and thus diminish damage from attack.

"There has been great dereliction in security at our airfields and ammunition dumps which has permitted the Viet Cong to make damaging, sneak attacks on them. This must be corrected."

The Georgia Democrat said that while South Vietnamese have been used to guard airfields, ammunition depots which have been attacked are guarded by U. S. troops. Many of the newly listed aircraft were planes or helicopters destroyed or irreparably damaged by Viet Cong attack on airstrips.

The Pentagon said Monday that in addition to the previously announced losses of 622 attack planes knocked down by Communist anti-aircraft or missiles, 550 planes have been lost on air strips, in operations outside Vietnam or for operational causes.

The 550 planes, worth an estimated $500 million, were said to range from single-engine Army observation planes to jet bombers.

The losses outside Vietnam included Air Force fighter-bombers which crashed in Laos while bombing Communist infiltration routes and planes downed in Thailand en route to missions in North Vietnam.

The announced toll of 255 helicopters will soon be more than doubled by adding in the non-attack categories of loss, officials also indicated.

Russell said he believes the losses of 1,172 fixed-wing planes exceeds the attrition rate for similar losses in the Korean War.

Russell said he and his committee knew the losses were clearly double those of the previously posted 622. He indicated he saw no need for any new investigation of the matter except for a possible inquiry into tightening security.

Book Cites Tension on Plane Returning Kennedy's Body

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and the grief-dazed aides of her assassinated husband declined to sit with President Lyndon B. Johnson during the flight from Dallas to Washington, William Manchester reports in his book, "The Death of a President."

He wrote that Mrs. Kennedy instructed Malcolm Kilduff, a press secretary, to inform the reporters aboard the plane:

"You make sure, Mac—you tell them that I was not up front, but that I came back here and sat with Jack."

Manchester wrote that Brig. Gen. Godfrey Hugh, Air Force aide to Kennedy, pounded the press table to emphasize his words and told the newsmen, "I want the record to show" that the four Kennedy aides "spent this flight in the tail compartment with the President — President Kennedy."

The third installment of Look magazine's four-part serialization of Manchester's book relates the incidents.

Reports have circulated for years about the tensions and flareups between Johnson's partisans and men loyal to the memory of Kennedy on the homeward flight of the presidential plane, Air Force One.

Kilduff once described it as "the sickest plane I've ever been on."

Manchester recalled that "most of these same individuals" aboard the plane had battled each other in Los Angeles at the 1960 Democratic Convention when Johnson fought hard to wrest the presidential nomination from Kennedy.

Thrown together on the same aircraft, and with Kennedy's shattered body aboard, "made tempest inevitable," Manchester wrote.

"And aspects of Johnson's behavior in a very understandable state of shock may have proven exacerbating, but the difficulty there was largely one of manners and mannerisms. Johnson was not himself that afternoon — no man was himself then," Manchester added.

Mrs. Kennedy and her husband had spent their last moments alone together in a private cabin on Air Force One, Manchester wrote. When she returned to the compartment, after the coffin had been placed on the plane, she found Johnson "reclining" on the bed, dictatig to Marie Fehmer, a secretary.

"Because she regarded the bedroom as hers, she did not knock," the book says. "She simply grasped the latch and twisted it. Mrs. Kennedy came to a dead stop."

Tax-Sharing Pledges Ignored, Taft Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Pledges to back a tax sharing plan with states has been "ignored" in Washington while the grant-in-aid device was continued to "mushroom radically" U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R Ohio, says.

Taft appeared here Monday night before a joint legislative committee studying a resolution calling for such a plan. It would return to Ohio an estimated $250 million five per cent of the federal income taxes collected in the state each year.

The congressman said President Johnson pledged his support of the proposal during the 1964 election campaign and quoted him as saying, "some part of the great and growing federal tax revenues" should be returned to state and local governments.

Father, Son on Coast Guard Flight Duty

NEW YORK (AP) — When Steve Goldhammer was 11 years old, he used to watch his father, a Coast Guard pilot, flying around in a helicopter.

"We always lived near the base and he used to fly over the house and wave," Steve recalls. "Everytime he flew over I wished I was up there."

Ensign Steve Goldhammer, now 22, is up there these days flying with his father, Lt. Cmdr. Walter R. Goldhammer, 47, among several other pilots.

Cmdr. Goldhammer says he believes he and Steve are the only father and son on active flight duty in the Coast Guard.

The father has 27 years service. The son won his wings and ensign's bars Jan. 20, a day after he turned 22.

"It was a good birthday present for me," Steve said today.

The Goldhammers are based at Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn. They live in the New York suburb of East Meadow on Long Island.

As a matter of routine, officers are permitted to list preferences for duty assignments. Steve put down Floyd Bennett Field and got it.

Cmdr. Goldhammer enlisted in the Coast Guard in 1939, and served as an enlisted pilot guarding convoys in World War II. He won his commission as an officer in 1945, and has 8,000 hours flying experience in both fixed-wing aircraft and helicopters.

He and Steve have had training missions together, but Steve does not always fly with his father on these missions.

The commander is one of several senior pilots helping Steve make the transition into the new HH52 single-engine, jet-turbine amphibious helicopter.

Steve says his father did not pressure him into becoming a Coast Guard pilot.

"It was my own desire," he explained. "When I was 11 I decided I'd like to make that my career."

Steve wanted to fly so much that he dropped out of Miami University of Ohio after two years to enlist in the Coast Guard and eventually win acceptance into the Coast Guard aviation cadet program, which was begun in 1964.

"My prime interest in enlisting was becoming a pilot," he said. "This is the only reason I quit school."

Cmdr. Goldhammer, who went to the Pensacola Naval Air Training Station to pin wings on his son when he was graduated, says today: "I was proud of him. I was glad to see him do it."

Ex-Treasury Chief Morgenthau Dies

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Henry Morgenthau Jr., whose long service as secretary of the treasury under Franklin D. Roosevelt was marked by controversy and accomplishment, is dead at the age of 75.

Morgenthau, who had the job of raising funds for World War II and whose interests in foreign affairs brought him into several controversies, died Monday night at the Vassar Brothers Hospital after a long illness.

He served as secretary of the treasury from January 1934, until July 1945, when he resigned with some bitterness from the Cabinet of President Harry S. Truman three months after Roosevelt died. He held the nation's top fiscal post longer than any other man except Albert Gallatin, who served for more than 12 years in the early 1800s.

Ohio Liquor Director Cites Gains by 'Drys'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —The drys are picking up strength on Ohio's wet versus dry battleground, Ohio Liquor Director Donald D. Cook says.

In the last general election, 31 local option issues were decided in the state. The drys won 28-3.

The state has been generally drying out since repeal of prohibition. In 1933 about 62 per cent of the cities were wet. Last year about 56 per cent were wet, according to statistics from Cook's department.

All major cities are wet, however, except in some precincts.

Apollo Pressure Invites Short Cuts, Engineers Say

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Two engineers involved with the Apollo man-to-the-moon program said the pressure of meeting schedules tempts engineers to take short cuts and choose superficial answers to problems.

Their remarks, contained in technical papers released at an American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics conference underway today at Cocoa Beach, were written before the Apollo 1 tragedy and in no way referred to the accident that killed three astronauts.

But the opinions, expressed by two engineers with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., echoed one of the most frequently heard criticisms of the man-to-the-moon program:

The pressure to meet schedules — launch schedules, delivery schedules and test schedules — should not be a factor when a mistake can cause injury or death, one said.

"Because meeting schedule is of prime importance, there is a natural tendency for test engineers and others who influence his task to choose the most superficial answer to a problem," said Daniel H. Driscoll Jr., test laboratory chief at Marshall's Systems Test Division.

"In a program where millions of dollars worth of equipment is involved and where a mistake could cause injury or death, pressure to meet unrealistic schedule dates should not be a factor," agreed Jesse N. Bradley, a Marshall test engineer.

"Pressure tempts people to compromise and to take short cuts," Bradley said in a paper about electrical systems for ground testing of large rockets.

Bradley suggested that test programs would have more success if only one shift of personnel did the work.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A strain of malaria immune to available drugs is sweeping through Vietnam and has struck more than 10,000 Americans there in less than two years, according to a report by a Navy research team.

Low-flying planes have been spraying over friendly Vietnamese territory in an effort to kill the larvae of the mosquitoes that carry the parasitic disease, the report said Monday.

A Substitute for War

Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's Jordell Bank radio telescope station, has appealed to the United States and Russia join in a space exploration program.

He said the useless waste of foney being spent in two separtae efforts aimed at the same goal 'must count as one of the deepest follies of all time."

This view is shared by many and it is sound; but we must go a step beyond to find the unseen value of dual space projects.

Man is a creature of action. He has an inborn fierce, competitive spirit.

His character shows in the steam generated by high school, college or professional sports competition; in day-to-day associations with others.

When this side of his nature becomes confused over conflicting ideas or intoxicated with the thoughts of power or aroused by greed, war results.

If the United States and Russia can channel competitive effort into the space race—we will have found a possible substitute for wrr.

Space accomplishments bring rewards of prestige and rising national pride; and conversely, failures net only declining world opinion. The stakes are high enough to keep the game interesting.

Other competitors are welcome.

Just as there always is next year in sports to buoy the defeated, there always will be another planet or star in the space race.

In Good Hands

Harvey Woods, Salem's new parks and recreational director, apparently is losing no time in setting machinery in motion to expand programs which will benefit especially the young people of the community.

In cooperation with Kent State University, which has assigned eight junior and senior students here in a recreational internship phase of their college studies, Woods has scheduled special two-day-a-week craft classes for children, supervised basketball leagues and assistance to Senior Citizens, among others. In addition, the KSU students, will make a study and inventory of Salem's recreation program.

We're happy Harvey Woods has come here from Cuyahoga Falls because it looks like the city recreational and parks department is in good hands.

Get Down to Particulars

It's hard to think of anything less surprising than a discovery by the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Of 206,865 freshmen in 251 institutions, says the association, more came from families with relatively low incomes than a similar number of students in private schools.

Low-income families naturally think of tax-supported schools when their offspring aspire to acquire a college education. This is because tuition either is unrealistically low, or even non-existent, as it is in the tax-supported University of California.

There can be no quarrel with the generalization that would-be college students gravitate in large numbers to tax-supported colleges and universities, so taxpayers in general can be made to underwrite the cost of their education. But let's get down to particulars.

California is not the only state where people are wondering why families of means should soak taxpayers in general for the cost of higher education.

Wouldn't it make far better sense if all schools, public and private, charged realistic tuition, which would be upward of $2,000 a year, with grants in aid only to students whose families needed public assistance?

Why should taxpayers in general be clipped for the college experiences of young men and women from wealthy families who could well afford to send their children to private colleges?

Why should taxpayers in general be expected to pay the freight for students whose families wanted them to go to private colleges but sent them to tax-supported schools at abnormally low or no-tuition when the students were turned down at the private colleges?

Why not charge realistic prices for all who can pay, then take care of the rest by giving them tuition grants in recognition of the fact their families asked for public help?

Salute to the Auxiliary

The Columbiana County Auxiliary of the Ohio State Highway Patrol has served "beyond the call of duty" since the unit was first organized in 1942 to help alleviate a manpower shortage during World War II.

Auxiliary members, all of them war veterans and American Legion members, have put in countless hours of dedicated service by accompanying regular officers on road patrol and relieving desk men at critical times. The public's admiration goes to auxiliary men like Walter Krauss of Salem and Don Jackson of Leetonia who were honored by the State Patrol at a testimonial dinner Saturday for their long service.

In providing a large measure of assistance and protection to the regular patrolmen, the Auxiliary staff has assured a better cover of protection for the general public.

Safety Toughies Turn Mild

The threatened drastic measures in safety standards for new automobiles turned out to be rather mild.

Most of the proposals already are in use by auto makers either as standard equipment or as optional features. The standards will serve as a means of getting the features on the cheaper models.

The mild proposals will have limited impact on the industry.

Perhaps safety experts got the message.

Maybe someone told them a good, conscientious driver can handle a "safety-stripped" model in as much safety as one that is fully "safety equipped."

Likewise, a scofflaw or drunk or careless driver will smack up the "safety-equipped" car with the same ease as the standard model.

The value of safety equipment is that it may prevents severe injuries or death when careless knuckleheads plow into innocent law-observing motorists.

Now that the ruckus over safety standards has quieted, maybe some attempt will be made to get chronic accident causers off the highways.

Our highways never will be 100 per cent safe. With the millions of vehicles that use our nation's arteries today, there are going to be collisions.

But the odds can be reduced significantly if effective measures are taken to get the scofflaws out from behind the wheel.

This can be accomplished only through a law that costs a scofflaw not only his driver license bug also the license plates for his car.

Hope Springs Eternal

Salemites will have a better appreciation of Spring, when it does come, as the result of winter's slap of a six-inch snowfall Sunday—a timely reminder that, after all, the groundhog last Thursday had made his usual forecast that there would be six more weeks of winter weather.

And, while hope spring's eternal in man's breast, the unofficial prognostications of the fury animal must be accepted—fact or fiction. After all, the calendar says it's only Feb. 7.

TRUMAN TWILL

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Coffer are undergoing an agonizing reappraisal of their finances as they try to agree on their 1967 family budget.

He calls her LBJ because she tells him how much she needs and what for, and she calls him Ev, after Sen. Everett Dirksen, because he has a lot to say about how much money she gets and what for.

He likes to think the letter "L" in LBJ stands for Lurleen.

"The way I have it figured," she growled at him, "we will have a deficit for the calendar year of something like nine billion unless you get a sur-salary of seven per cent."

"I already told you," he warned, "that I asked the boss for a raise and he said he thought the corporation was better able to handle its money than I was. He said if he gave me a raise I would just go out and spend it and add to inflation."

"Well," she welled "I have gone over our figures a hundred times and we can't have butter and your gun collection, too."

"Then we'll just have to cut down on our butter and start using the cheaper spread," he said. "We will have to concentrate on getting by on basic necessities and forget about frills."

"Okay," she snorted, "we can start cutting by eliminating your physical fitness program such as golf, the boat and our foreign-aid program for the cat and dog. After all, you can get just as much exercsie by mowing the lawn as by playing 18 holes of golf and have something to show for the effort besides."

"How about slashing the beautification program?" he suggested. "All those beauty treatments and fancy clothes and hose don't seem to be necessary to sustain life here in our little enclave."

"Next you'll be trying to cut down on education and funds for our underdeveloped children," she cried.

"I get tired of hearing that old malarkey every year at budget time," he said. "Look at the smartest men this country ever produced, Jefferson, Madison, Edison and Gen. Mills. They were never coddled the way our kids are coddled. The kids just squander their allowances on candy and run up dentist bills, anyway."

"You certainly don't want the neighbors and our friends to think that three-fourths of this family is ill-clothed, do you?" she jibed.

"I happen to have a pocket of poverty myself,", he exclaimed, "and when are you going to get around to mending that hole in my pocket? We'll have to do something about correcting our unfavorable balance of payments."

"Such as forgetting about that new car you were talking about," she replied.

"No, I was thinking about a more efficient use of our labor supply," he countered.

"Maybe if you worked harder at the office you could make more money," she suggested.

"I took that up with the boss, but everything is automation these days," he explained. "I told the boss I could produce a lot more if he put a key on my typewriter to write nine zeros at one punch of a key. That would make it lots quicker to write the national deficit of nine billion dollars."

"But meantime we would still have an empty coffer," said Phil Coffer.

"Don't be melodramatic," said she.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

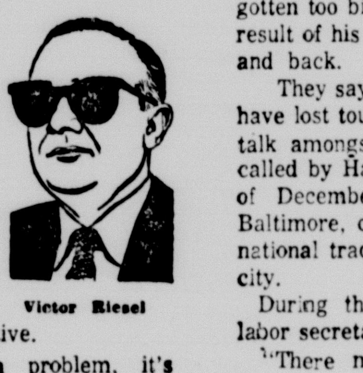
VICTOR RIESEL

Red Political Plans Bared

SAN FRANCISCAO: — We have the word of J. Edgar Hoover, who has it from some mighty basic sources, that the American Communists plan to launch a new popular front "Peoples' Party" in '68 and run a presidential candidate. And the West is the setting for it.



Victor Riesel

These hard core Communists have not suddenly gone psychedelic. They're realists. They waste neither manpower — of which they have little — nor money — of which they have considerable.

They well know they'll roll up more thunder on the left than votes. But that's the objective.

However, they do have a problem, it's amusing to note. Even inside their own party apparatus now, the West and Southwest comrades are in revolt against their own "Eastern establishment" — just like the major parties.

Out here the party people believe their leaders away off in Manhattan are stuffy, rigid, fresh out of fresh ideas. It is fascinating to read a confidential party report that attacks the Communists' national leader, Gus Hall, as a dictator who uses "democratic centralism as a front for bureaucratic centralism" to keep his control of the apparatus.

It's all heading for a Marxist confrontation at the plenum of the Communist Party's Southern California District convention in Los Angeles scheduled for Feb. 10 to 12.

THE SOUTHERN SECTION wants more freedom of action. It believes it can build a following — right out in the open — behind a team of leaders little known in the East.

One is an outspoken lady in red, Mrs. Dorothy Healey, who tackled party chief Gus Hall during the really closed door session of the party's 18th National Convention last June in New York. She actually amassed 86,149 votes when she ran for tax assessor in Los Angeles County last June 7. That's more votes than any avowed Communist has received in more than 16 years.

She's district chairman — and at her side is one Benjamin Dobbs, executive secretary of the district. They have a high-geared, tough, silently operating political machine which reaches right up here into the Bay area, especially onto the waterfront.

The team has developed a plan for action which they believe can get avowed party people into some public offices. They believe this to be vital no matter how minor the post.

Dobbs wants his people to go out and organize conferences, forums and workshops. He wants his followers to go into professional, labor, youth and cultural clubs

Neither he nor Mrs. Healy want to continue taking orders from the Eastern headquarters in New York. They object to the high level "commission" structure of the party, control of the funds there and the patronizing "Stalinish" cult of personality in Manhattan.

THESE COMMISSIONS, structered in New York City, "are removed from the membership" say the Californians. They no longer like the Kremlinish approach and believe Gus Hall has gotten too big for his well-tailored trousers as a result of his expensive 77-day world trip to Asia and back.

They say Hall and the Eastern establishment have lost touch with realism. For example, they talk amongst themselves of a secret meeting called by Hall in Chicago during the final days of December. Hall and George Meyers of Baltimore, chairman of the Communist Party's national trade union commission, flew in to the city.

During these secret sessions, Hall and his labor secretary issued orders such as:

"There must be heavy infiltration of the Teamsters and the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education. In addition, Communists must organize and participate in caucuses within their trade unions . . .

"COMMUNISTS cannot win the working class by working behind the scenes. In order to lead the working class, Communist Party members must strive to become leaders in the unions."

Hall then issued an order that "all party members who belong to trade unions must run for an office" in the organization.

The Californians don't necessarily disagree with Hall and the Easterners. But the Westerners want more freedom of action. Dobbs wants a network of committees on labor and other spheres to be based on the lowest level of the party structure — the club or cell.

In a word: "Polycentrism." Exactly what happened abroad. Revolt against the centralized power of the "CPSU" — Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

Such independence would give the party comrades a chance to blend into the political flora and fauna of the land. They would sound more human. They would be far more dangerous. They could actually give the party what it has not had in 25 years — some influence in politics and labor.

It could even get the popular front Peoples' Party off the ground on a single plank — peace.

Through The Years

ONE YEAR AGO —Rev. Harold B Winn, pastor of the First Friends Church, will speak on "Relationship Between the City and Country People" at this week's meeting of the Salem Rotary Club.

10 YEARS AGO — An Ohio Edison Co. proposal to purchase the city's overhead street lighting system and furnish the municipality with a modern street lighting system was introduced at Monday night's City Council meeting.

Benefit to All Children

Stories describing polio vaccine programs in South Korea are a harsh reminder that some countries still are engaged in the battle against the crippling killer.

With Salk and Sabin vaccines, the United States has just about wiped out the threat of the once terrifying disease.

It is easy to recall the years when we fearfully approached the April 1 beginning of the poliomyelitis season.

Worry mounted, as did the number of cases, until the August-September peak was reached.

In pre-vaccine years, the reported incidence rate looked like this: 1948 — 27,902; 1949 — 42,173 and 1950 — 33,202.

After the Salk vaccine was pronounced "safe, effective and potent" April 12, 1955, and subsequently the Sabin vaccines, the disease was defeated.

Youngsters now can play as hard as they like and swim as often as they like during summer vacations without parents being anxious every moment.

But while the United States was winning its fight with polio, countries like South Korea were still struggling.

But America hasn't forgotten.

Aid from the United States helps support clinics that administer vaccine to South Korean youngsters; and an American pharmaceutical company has donated two million doses of Salk vaccine.

The war against polio and other childhood diseases will go on through research and public support, and all children will benefit.

They Work With Danger

It is unlikely the cause of the fatal fire in the Apollo I spacecraft ever will be known for certain.

As has been the case in many airplane disasters, investigation after the fact will produce little more than educated guesses.

At some future date in the Apollo program, three more astronauts will have to risk their lives as an affirmation of their faith in designers, engineers and artisans. No spacecraft ever is going to be absolutely safe.

No astronaut expects absolute safety. These men and their families are never far from the realization of acute danger. This does not make the triple fatality at Cape Canaveral easier to think about. But it should still the tongues of those who are saying the space program should be abandoned because danger materialized.

Men's probing into the still unknown but potentially knowable always has been dangerous.

Doctor Scarcity

The American Medical Association's Council on Medical Education begins its 63rd annual Congress in Chicago Thursday.

Doctors are always in demand, always in short supply. American medical schools graduated 7,574 men and women in 1966, an all-time record, but not enough to fill the need.

The doctor shortage in the United States has become chronic. The American Medical Association estimates that by 1975 some 10,000 medical students will be graduated each year, but that still won't be enough.

An editorial in the Journal of the American medical education facilities and the earlier recent annual report on medical education, stated:

"Despite the high ratio of physicians to the general population and the high quality of medical education and patient care in the United States as compared with that in the world around us, apparently medicine and the public in general are not content that we have achieved all that is possible and desirable."

The shortage is caused by a shortage of meeical education facilities and the earlier financial rewards of other sciences. It is also a result of the high cost of medical education.

Sixteen new medical schools are continuing development programs. The new schools are expected to be graduating an additional 1,062 medical students annually by the mid-1970s.

Total enrollment is at a new high in U.S. medical schools. The figure is 32,935 against 32,428 in 1965-66. The total of internship and residency positions offered in U.S. hospitals—54,866—has increased less than 2 per cent in the past year.

Federal programs have created peculiar troubles for medical schools. Medicare and the government's other programs of health care for the poor are producing the problem of how to teach with "teaching mateial"—the steady stream of indigent patients who formerly were treated by students.

A special committee of the faculty of the Harvard Medical School in a report of Oct. 8, 1966, called for sweeping changes in the curriculum and orientation of medical education. The report called for a core curriculum, much truncated, which would leave the student free to take a wide variety of elective courses.

As it is, most medical students take the same course, whether they are to be general practitioners, psychoanalysts, surgeons, research scientists or hospital or public health administrators.

In praising the Harvard report, the N. Y. Times referred to "the Procrustean bed that is the standard medical school curriculum, with its incredibly heavy and rapidly increasing volume of required factual knowledge." Members of the AMA and others interested in medical education are searching for ways to make the bed more flexible.

New Era In Liberia

In your issue of Dec. 9, 1966, which I have just seen, you report a talk given to the Lisbon Kiwanis Club by Darrell Fadely, who spent two years in the service of the Methodist Church in Liberia.

Mr. Fadely is quoted as saying that segregation, in the sense of "separation of class rather than race" exists in Liberia and as adding in explanation of this comment: "The descendants of Negro freemen from the United States make up the aristocracy while the natives are the underprivileged."

This view of Liberian conditions was never accurate and is nearly a quarter of a century out of date. When he came to office in 1944 President Tubman announced a "national unification program", the purpose of which the described in these words: "We must destroy all ideologies that tend to divide us. All of us must register a new era of justice, equality, fair dealing and equal opportunity for everyone from every part of the country, regardles of tribe, clan, section, element, creed or economic status."

The remarkable success of this program has been recognized and praised by numerous observers. Not only has it removed distinctions, political, economic and social, between all the people of Liberia, it has also brought about a firm national union and has averted those internal dissensions which have troubled some other parts of Africa. It has been largely responsible for the maintenance of that stability which has come to be regarded as the chief characteristic of the Tubman administration and has helped to attract such substantial American and other foreign investment.

Advice to Youth

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Now hear this, young man.

One of the chores of a columnist is to tell youth how to live. No one knows just why columnists are entitled to this privilege, but if they don't exercise it at least once a year they are likely to have their licenses revokes.

So, young fellow, here is my free advice for 1967 on how to wrest the best from life and avoid the pitfalls of a trap-filled world:

If you are idealistic and yearn to improve the human rac, try to get the job done by the time you are 25. If you haven't, then concentrate on improving yourself.

Sleep on a firm bed. Half the people who wake up tired do so because their bed is too soft.

The other chief source of fatigue is boredom. To avoid boredom make change a routine thing in your life. Never spend two days in a row exactly alike, even if you only eat in a different restaurant or go home by a different route.

Always dry between your toes thoroughly after shower. you can't go far on sore feet.

If you are unable for one reason or another to marry your employer's daughter, marry a girl with a merry mind and a responsible heart. These qualities endure long after beauty does.

Never drink anything except milk or water at lunch until your 60th birthday. Avoid drinking hard liquor before dusk or after midnight.

If you play golf, play it on weekends. The young fellows who sneak out to the country club during the week usually wind up bums.

Ask for a pay rise every 18 months—whether you need it or not. There is no surer way to find out how you stand with the firm. If you get turned down twice, better look for another job.

Don't quit a good job, however, just because you are piqued with your boss. The chances are fairly good that in time he will retire, get fired himself or be sidelined by an ulcer.

Take as little medicine as possible. Too much medicine probably keeps as many people sick as it makes well.

If you learn early that you are inept at handling money, let your wife handle the family income. Then, if you both wind up in the poorhouse, you'll at least have someone besides yourself to blame.

Have at least two children, or adopt a couple. And keep a pet cat, dog, or goldfish in the home. children und pets do more than anything to keep a household sane—and in an uproar.

If you must gamble, bet on the one thing you can't afford to lose—yourself. It is foolish to bet on a race horse that could have no possible interest in your welfare.

Save 10 per cent of what you earn until get your house paid for, and after that save 15 per cent.

Take your wife out at least one evening a week, even if you only stroll around the block together.

Read a book—new or old, good or bad—at least once a month.

Eat sparingly. Every time you eat fried foods follow them with an ounce of castor oil. In time this will cure you of eating fried foods at all.

Whenever you feel tense or depressed, go for a three-mile walk, sit down and write a poem, or take a vacation.

Don't expect too much of other people, and don't depend on good luck. As Jim Farley observed,"....Things don't just happen, they are made to happen."

See as many sunrises as you do sunsets

Any young fellow of 21 who follows these tips and isn't happy and hale at 65 can bring his complaits to me. By then I'll be 100 years old—and probably have even better advice.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: To keep a baby's bottle warm for quite a while, cut a hole the size of the bottle in an aluminum foil pie plate and fit it down over the bottle which has been heated in a pan of water.

Cover the top of the pan with the pie tin so the bottle is sticking through the hole.

The aluminum plate keeps the water warm and the bottle from cooling too quickly.

M. F. GOODMAN.

DEAR HELOISE: We have two small children and the polish on their shoes was always rubbing off on the upholstery of the car because their little legs are too short to hang over the edge of the seat. I thought of slipping a pair of clean, old sockso ver their shoes after they get into the car.

Now the upholstery and their socks over their shoes after they much they squirm around in the car.

BETH.

DEAR BETH: Your old nylon stockings are excellent for this. They slip over children's shoes beautifully and can be kept in the glove compartment.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For a perfect fitting garment, I baste the pieces together before sewing on the machine, but leave openings about one-half inch on each side of connecting seams or where there are darts and tucks.

By basting first, adjustments may be made easily. Darts and tucks can be taken in, or let out, so the dress or blouse will fit perfectly.

ANNE.

DEAR HELOISE: A shoe salesman gave me the following tips on buyng shoes:

It's better to shop for shoes late in the day because your feet spread as the day goes on (especially during hot weather). Shoes bought early in the morning may be real "pinchers" after you have been on your feet several hours.

Also, one foot is often slightly larger than the other, so it is wise to buy your shoes to fit the larger foot. Then, buy a pair of inner soles and insert one in the shoe for the smaller foot.

IRENE.

Regarding the second tip.

A friend of mine broke a toe several years ago and when it healed, that foot was slightly larger than the other . . . so she used the "inner-sole-in-one-shoe" method.

Last year she broke a toe on the OTHER foot, so her feet are the same size again!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELSOISE: Being a service wife, I do quite a bit of moving.

I found my cannister set didn't always match the color scheme of my kitchen, so I covered the set with adhesive backed plastic paper and used tape for labels.

It works wonders and when I move again, I remove the plastic paper and apply a new color if desired.

MRS. A. R. DiTULLEO.

Next time, Shug, don't remove the old plastic paper. Not only will it adhere better but will go on smoother over the old paper.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Try tying packages to be mailed with either nylon or orlon knitting yarn.

It will pull tighter, not stretch like mailing cord, cannot be broken by hand (must be cut with scissors) and it is a good way to use up odds and ends of yarn.

AGNES E.

DEAR HELOISE: I always keep a cellulose sponge on the floor of my car to wipe up puddles caused by wet shoes during rainy weather.

SON DAVID.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is how I clean my venetian blinds.

I wring a soft cloth out in warm water, then dip it in a small container of good wax cleaner.

It cleans and shines them at the same time.

Then I polish the blinds with a dry soft cloth. This leaves a shining hard finish that stays clean much longer and is easily dusted.

ETHEL ALEXANDER.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits.

The Ocean-Hopping Birds

NEW YORK — At the inauguration of commercial service via the first fully operational Pacific communications satellite last week, President Johnson sent a message to Prime Minister Sato of Japan. It said in part:

"The beginning of Pacific satellite service is more than a great technical feat: It is a promise of deeper understanding between the peoples of the East and West."

Intelsat II had been successfully placed in synchronous orbit 23,500 miles above the equator along the international dateline. The first, circling in lopsided orbit, was functional only limited hours of the day.

But as of this week, the promise of Lani Bird II, as Intelsat II is more familiarly known, was still largely promise.

NBC was looking into its employment. CBS said it considered Lani Bird like a telephone line, to be used when needed on a selective basis.

ABC, which owns part of a television station in Tokyo, confided that it was comparison - shopping the entire communications pipeline, from Saigon to the United States, to determine if flight to Tokyo and satellite transmission would be faster than direct air route. Color processing in Japan was also being investigated.

UNLIKE transatlantic service, which occasioned an early flurry of special programs, transpacific television was creating no real stir among U.S. broadcasters — much to the disappointment of those who thrilled at the first live pictures from Japan two and a half years ago, the opening Olympic Games ceremonies.

The lack of enthusiasm was not due to cost, an ABC executive said. He noted that 10 minutes from London to New York was $4,400 and from Tokyo to New York only $3,200.

Nor was it apathy. He cited these factors: Bugs still to be worked out, the awkwardness of a 13 - hour time differential, complicated logistics.

Moreover, satellite use today is more sophisticated, he said.

TV leaps across the oceans are more often for transmission of excerpted material for later use, rather than live coverage. He admitted that if a ground station were available in Vietnam, all networks would be transmitting live coverage and film - tape material daily.

The case of West to East transmission is different.

The Nippon Television network in Japan last week inaugurated a weekly ten - minute news program from New York to Tokyo by flying Tochiro Mayuzumi, a famous composer and television personality, to the States to get the show going. This week, and regularly hereafter, Kazuo Gomi will be the newsman.

The newscast is sent in color from an NBC studio in New York Friday evening and is seen live in Japan at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

This week (Feb. 6) the alert NTV network will be carrying live to the Japanese people, the Clay - Terrell heavyweight championship fight from the Houston Astrodome in Texas.

Transatlantic television also will be active this week. The networks are covering live the London news conference of Soviet Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin Feb. 9.

International Incident

"The Rat Patrol" was dropped by the British Broadcasting Corporation after angry protests from "Desert Rat" veterans of the British Eighth Army. Six of 26 episodes had been shown.

The big beef was that the series had three Americans and one Briton apparently licking Nazi General Erwin Rommel's Afrika Corps in World War II all by themselves.

That was an honor hard won by the Eighth Army and not easily relinquished even in an American television series, the protestors protested.

"Supposed to be fiction, you know," a miffed BBC executive huffed.

Crystal Ball Gazing

Novelist Sir Compton Mackenzie, celebrating his 84th birthday in Edinburgh, predicted that in 100 years television will have killed off books and theater, leaving only films.

If true, no one a century from now will be reading his novel, "Whiskey Galore," or watching a revival of the musical now being prepared from it, "Scotch on the Rocks."

Presto, Publicity.

Maj. Hector Quintanilla, director of the Air Force's UFO investigating center at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, said Monday night as far as he knew his Project Blue Book staff hadn't seen the pictures.

"We'd be interested in seeing them," the major said.

Copies already are in the hands of the investigating group of which Dr. Gilliotte is a member, but this private organization which puts credence in authenticity of flying caucers has not issued an evaluation from its Washington headquarters.

At any rate, Ditter relates that he had his camera that fateful Sunday afternoon because he had just left his house at nearby Roseville to walk to a nearby relative's and photograph some newly built furniture there.

At the end of his driveway, he looked back and there it was, says Ditter.

He described the saucer as about 20 feet in diameter, hovering 25-50 feet above the house for a few seconds, then sailing quickly out of sight. It was silent, rotated counterclockwise and had no effects on the earth below, he continued.

The generally unsmiling Soviet premier heard plenty of boos among the polite cheers and applause on his first day in the British capital. Groups of Ukrain and Balkan exiles paraded with hostile banners across from his hotel.

— There is belief in European capitals that Hanoi's ties with Communist China have been loosened by the turmoil in China.

— There is a "general feeling in Europe that North Vietnam is not as adamant in its demands" as it has been previously.

He is not yet prepared to do it, but Kennedy seemingly is going to join some Senate colleagues in urging an extension of the pause in the bombing of North Vietnam that is scheduled for the New Year period.

STAR PIG — Talk about living high on the hog. If "Oink" here gave up show business the price of bacon would probably go up again. "Oink," a 600-pound barrow, is the star of a trained pig act, which recently appeared at the Illinois State Armory in Springfield. (UPI Telephoto) freezing rain made driving difficult from the central regions of the Carolinas to northeast Mississippi. Cold marched along with the precipitation and fruit growers in southern Alabama, northern Georgia and northwest Florida were given cold-wave warnings.

Altogether, hazardous driving or heavy-snow warnings were issued in 18 states.

New York City officials kept 200 salt spreaders and their crews on duty overnight, to concentrate on hills and spots where melted snow had frozen. The rest of a 2,000-man night force worked to restore garbage collection disrupted by Monday's snowstorm.

The storm dumped up to three inches of snow on the city and its suburbs and delayed commuters for up to three hours.

No new snow is in sight for Detroit, where the city's $800,000 snow removal budget has been spent.

W. Branch Board Plans Bus Survey

The West Branch Board of Education Monday night authorized a transportation survey after hearing protests from a Derr Ave. delegation objecting to the present policy.

The survey along with a recommendation on the policy will be made by Frank Solak, Mahoning County transportation coordinator, and Paul Butch, who is the coordinator for the West Branch district.

The board also adopted a resolution asking Columbiana County Prosecutor J. Warren Bettis to have Westville Lake placed on the tax duplicate at its proper valuation.

The lake itself now is on the tax-exempt list of properties, but the board wants it on the duplicate since it is being leased to an individual as a profit-making enterprise.

A proposal from Les Smeller of Canton, a Petrocon representative, for a lease of school property to drill an oil and gas well was tabled for further study.

The board adopted a resolution underwriting a course for Belot volunteer firemen. The cost will be borne by the State Department of Education.

It also took under consideration a copy of the county school calendar.

It approved a vocational home economics course for the next term, authorized Supt. Clinton Heacock to hire a teacher to succeed Mrs. Nancy Manan, third grade teacher at Beloit, who is resigning.

The board also agreed to pay up to $500 to assist the Goshen Mothers Club in providing a play area for elementary children.

Supt. Heacock reported the district will receive $6,255 for elementary libraries under Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The board will hold an informal special meeting Feb. 16 at 8 p.m. with representatives of the West Branch Education Association to discuss a professional negotiation policy.

Beaver Board to Buy 4 New School Buses

Purchase of four new buses and adoption of the unified school calendar for the next term highlighted the meeting of the Beaver Local Board of Education Monday night.

Supt. Roy Cashdollar will make application for the new buses with the State Department of Education under the centralized purchasing plan.

The standardized calendar provides for all county public and parochial schools to open on Wednesday, Sept. 6, with the last day for students on Monday, June 5.

The board also approved a contract with the Ohio Edison Co.'s Salem office to replace all appliances in the high school home economics department in March.

Mrs. James Cusick, second grade teacher at West Point, was granted a maternity leave of absence effective Feb. 27, and Mrs. Nelson Kelly of Calcutta was employed to finish the term.

The board also hired Nelson Kelly and Arnell Howell of Rogers as bus drivers.

It also authorized Cashdollar to submit an application for the purchase of $5,800 worth of supplies under Title III of the National Defense Education Act in which the federal government will reimburse the board for half the cost.

Library books, physics supplies and an opaque projector will be purchased for the high school, supplementary textbooks and a television set for the junior high, and dictionaries for elementary grades.

Cashdollar notified the board that an allocation of $5,451 or $2.08 per student has been approved under Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education.

The Beaver Coin Club was authorized to use the Public School gymnasium Oct. 1 for a coin show at a rental of $50 plus custodial fees.

A request for the rent, lease or purchase of the building on Route 170 formerly occupied by Oak Grove School was tabled until the board can learn whether the Achor Baptist Church plans to use the structure. The church was granted permission at the last board meeting, but has given no indication it will use the building.

The board also renewed its membership in the Ohio School Boards Association for 1967 at a fee of $120.

Members announced they will accept an invitation to attend the meeting of the West Point Parent - Teacher Association on April 10.

Clayton Aughinbaugh, president, announced standing committees for the year. With the chairman listed first, they are: finance, William Smith and Arthur Doak; athletic, Lee Myers and Paul Dailey; policy, Dailey and Smith; transportation, Doak and Myers; buildings and grounds, Doak and Dailey; cafeteria, Myers and Smith, and co-curricular, Dailey and Doak. Aughinbaugh is an ex-officio member of all committees.

The finance committee is expected to meet this week and the athletic and cafeteria committees will meet prior to the next board meeting on March 6.

Sebring Man Is Jailed for Drunk Driving

Clyde Thompson, 48, of 15th St., Sebring, pleaded guilty to driving under influence of alcohol and was fined $150 and costs and given three days in jail by Mayor Dean Cranmer in Salem mayor's court after an accident at 6 p.m. Monday.

According to police, Thompson, who was going east on State St. in a pickup truck, turned north onto Ellsworth Ave. into the path of a car driven by Gerald L. Joy, 23, of RD 3, Salem, who was traveling west with the green light. Thompson was also cited for no operator's license and was fined $25 and costs on that charge.

Two minor accidents attributed to snow occurred Monday.

At 5 p.m. a vehicle driven by Richard A. Greschaw, 18, of RD 3, Salem, slid into one operated by Doris L. Niederhiser, 38, of 840 Morris St., who had stopped for a red light at S. Ellsworth and Franklin Aves.

not been substantially revised since 1916.

A partial study in 1933, Longsworth said, covered only bank liquidations, a major concern during the Depression.

Regula said the proposed legislation is designed to put state-chartered banks on a par with national banks, to preserve and strengthen the dual banking system.

It would create a department of banking, to replace the present divison of banks within the state's department of commerce.

Other Provisions

The bill also would:

Give broader powers for bank service corporations and permit mobile branching.

Change incorporation methods and set a time limit of 180 days for approval of an application for a new bank and 90 days for approval of applications for branches.

Increase the minimum capital surplus and undivided profits required to establish a new bank to $250,000 in a municipality of 25,000 or less and $500,000 in cities of more than 25,000, with an additional $100,000 for a branch.

Require an expense fund of at least 25 per cent of paid - in capital and surplus to form a new bank to cover organization and early operation expenses.

Increase to 100 per cent of capital the amount a bank could invest in real estate and buildings it occpies, or, with the approval of the state director, 50 per cent of the capital and surplus.

Viet Cong Shell Four Airfields

On Eve of Lunar New Year Truce

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The Viet Cong shelled four airfields in South Vietnam today in an 11th hour surge before the start of the lunar New Year truce and U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported 143 Communist soldiers killed in ground fighting.

Simultaneously U.S. warplanes, beginning the third year of the air offensive against North Vietnam, got in a final day of bombing raids before the cease-fire but poor flying weather held down the number of strikes.

The U.S. command announced that a small U.S. Air Force observation plane was shot down by ground fire in North Vietnam Monday, and a helicopter that tried to rescue the pilot was downed also. The command said another helicopter rescued one of the crewmen from the downed chopper, but the other three crewmen and the observation pilot were missing.

The truce, in observance of the Vietnamese New Year called Tet, will start at 7 a.m. Wednesday — 6 p.m. EST today. Allied forces in the field began pulling back into defensive positions.

The allies will halt offensive actions on land, sea and in the air for four days. The Viet Cong has declared a truce of seven days.

The approaching of the cease-fire also was accompanied by an upsurge in Viet Cong terrorism against civilians in several parts of South Vietnam. This included the assassination of a school teacher and a grenade thrown into the home of a deputy province chief during a pre-New Year's party which killed one civilian and wounded 11 others.

W. Reserve Board Meets Wednesday

Adoption of a professional negotiation agreement with the teachers' organization will be considered by the Western Reserve Local Board of Education at its meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The board also is scheduled to adopt a 1967 - 68 school calendar and approve a summer remedial reading program under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The proposed master plan for school district reorganization also will be discussed.

Clay Outclasses Terrell In 15-Round Title Fight

* * *

Heavyweight Champ Eyes Folley Next

* * *

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay, the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world again after humiliating Ernie Terrell in a one-sided 15-round fight, had an easy road ahead of him today in his brilliant fistic career.

Unless the Army gets him first, the all-winning 25-year-old, new Texan, only has mediocre competition ahead of him, the likes of Zora Folley, the scientific if meek No. 2 contender from Chandler, Ariz.; Canadian George Chuvalo in a repeat; young Thad Spencer; and possibly — horrors of horrors — Floyd Patterson once more.

"It will be either Zora Folley or George Chuvalo next," said Clay-Muhammad Ali, unmarked as usual, "but I'm sure it's Folley. I think Folley can put up a better fight than Terrell. He's a better boxer."

"I can beat Clay," said the 34-year-old Folley. "I saw plenty of openings."

How would he do it?

"With my two hands," said the soft-spoken Folley, a man of few words.

A Clay-Folley match might be made for New York's Madison Square Garden or Detroit's Olympia, in late March.

Clay, now winner in eight title defenses and six in 11 months, had predicted he would hand the 27-year-old 6-foot-6 Terrell "a Floyd Patterson humiliation beating."

He did just that in half-closing Terrell's left eye, cutting him over the right eye, and pounding him almost at will. He did everything but knock down the lumbering giant, who stumbled about half-blinded from the middle rounds on.

Terrell's vaunted left jab, his main attacking weapon, was completely nullified by the dazzling foot work and head movements of the superbly conditioned Clay.

The three officials had Clay ahead by lop-sided scores. Using the 10-point must system, referee Harry Kessler had it 148-137 (12-2-1 in rounds), judge Jimmie Webb had it 148-133 (13-2 in rounds), and Judge Ernie Taylor 148-137 (13-2 in rounds). The Associated Press card had it 148-137, and 14-1 in rounds, giving Terrell only the second.

"He was disappointing because he just kept holding and clinching all the time, but he had to have great courage to stay in the ring and take a whipping for 15 rounds," said Clay.

"He fought a dirty fight," Terrell contended. "He rubbed my right eye against the ropes and thumbed my left eye so that from the third round on I couldn't see Clay to hit him.

"I kept seeing two or three people."

Terrell was bruised under the left eye in the fourth round, and it puffed his eye to a slit by the end of the tortuous whipping. Big Ernie was cut over the right eye in the seventh round and he lurched about the ring from then on, tying to close in on his elusive, taunting foe, who popped him with both hands and moved like a ballet dancer.

In the eighth the 6-foot-3 Clay knew he had his towering foe figured out and ready for the cleaners.

In the eighth and ninth rounds, he kept taunting Terrell by asking "What's my name?"

Terrell called Clay by his given name and refused to yield to him when Clay the generally regarded champion asked him to call him by his Black Muslim name of Muhammad Ali. For this Clay called Terrell an "Uncle Tom," a term Negroes use in referring to a member of their race they consider acting servile to whites.

Clay severely battered Patterson, the former two - time champion, in stopping him in 12 rounds at Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 22, 1965. He later admitted he had carried Patterson so he could humiliate him.

Terrell, holding his hands high, found his defenses crumbled by the pin-point punching of the boxing master, now a resident of Houston. Clay fired away with his two guns — "my right and left"—and must have hit the plodding giant at least 2,000 times in the monotonous 15 rounds.

Although Clay was regarded as champion by most everyone, Terrell was recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association after the WBA stripped Clay of recognition for signing a return-bout contract with Sonny Liston. Terrell, of Atlantic City, N.J., and Chicago, beat Eddie Machen in Chicago, March 5, 1965, to gain the WBA title.

"Now, who's the champ?" yelled the jubilant Clay.

A record indoor crowd of 37,321 paid a gross of $400,145. The crowd surpassed the one of 35,460 which paid $461,290 for Clay's third round knockout of Cleveland Williams in the same magnificent Astrodome last Nov. 14.

With the receipts from closed circuit television, and live hookups to England and Japan by the communications satellites, radio and delayed television, Clay figures to earn about $600,000 and Terrell about $210,000.

Clay weighed 212¼ and Terrell, 212½, the heaviest of Ernie's career.

Clay's record is 28-0 including 22 knockouts. Only Chuvalo, beaten in 15 rounds last March 29, and Terrell have been able to go the distance with Clay in the last four years. Clay at one time had predicted a fifth round knockout and was a 4-1 choice to win. Terrell, too, had had predicted a knockout triumph.

After losing his first fight in nearly five years and having his winning streak snapped at 15.

Salem Goes Against East Friday, South Saturday

Tourney Pairings Scheduled Tonight

Salem High School, preparing for its last two games of an 18-game schedule, is looking forward to the Class AA Sectional Tournament slated at Youngstown South starting Feb. 16.

Drawings for the sectional tourney will be held tonight at 7:30 in John Knox Presbyterian Church in Youngstown. A total of 15 schools representing Mahoning and Columbiana counties will be on hand for the event.

The Quakers will end regular season play against Youngstown East Friday and Youngstown South Saturday.

Youngstown East has shown improvement the past few weeks, defeating South last week in an upset.

AFTER SALEM knocked off East 62-61 during regular action last season, the Bears avenged the loss with a 51-37 victory over the Quakers in the "AA" tourney.

This season Coach Lou Rivello's Bears have a 4-11 record. Rebuilding, East doesn't even start a senior in its lineup. The Bears use three juniors and a pair of sophomores.

Mervin Teague, 6-4, and Ed Mitchell, 6-4, are the sophomores. Ray Lewis, 6-0, Mike Harvey, 6-0, and Rufus Humphrey, 5-8, are the juniors. Teague is strong inside, and Harvey provides the outside shooting threat.

South, usually one of the better teams in Youngstown, has compiled an 8-7 record.

TONY BOATWRIGHT, 6 - 4 senior, is considered one of the top players in Youngstown. Tough under the boards, he has scored in double figures consistently this seson.

Four juniors make up the rest of South's lineup. Fred Cooper is 6-2; Henry Lindsey, 6 - 1; Marv McWilson, 6-0; and Julius Livas, 5-10.

Boatwright, Cooper, Lindsey and Livas all started in the game against Salem last season. The Quakers won that contest 72-34.

The Quakers have won five of their last six contests, beating Cleveland Benedictine 74 - 68 and Steubenville 68-62 in their last two starts.

Coach John Cabas will probably start Rick Liber, 6-5 junior, at center; Scot Cody, 5 - 8 sophomore, and Chuck Montgomery, 5-9 senior, at guards; and Rich Hackett, 6-2 senior, and Dana Barnes, 6 - 2 sophomore, at forwards.

Columbus East Still Ranked 1st In Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three newcomers, cracked the Associated Press' top ten rankings but Columbus East held a firm grip on the No. 1 spot in the weekly ratings of Ohio's high school basketball teams.

The unbeaten Tigers (14-0) collected 244 points and built their biggest lead of the season as No. 2 ranked Lorain Admiral King, 16-1, picked up 163 points. King held second place despite an 84-83 loss to Sandusky last Friday.

The top five was unchanged with Columbus Linden (13-2) third; Canton Lincoln (13-3) fourth and Cleveland East Tech (14-2) fifth.

Dayton Roosevelt (15-2) moved up a notch to sixth on the strength of an 82-71 victory over Dayton Belmont. Lima Shawnee (13-2) was seventh followed by newcomers Kenton (15-1); Waverly (17-0) and Worthington (15-1).

The latter three replaced Belmont, Newark and Marion Harding, all beaten last Friday night.

Dayton Belmont skidded to 11th, Newark to 12th and Harding to 21st.

There was a new leader in the Class A division as Fort Recovery, beaten last week by Franklin-Monroe, fell to fourth place.

Ames-Bern (18-0) took over the top spot on 170 points with Strasburg (17-0) in second place on 140 points. Northwestern of Wayne County (16-1) was third and Bloomville (17-1) fifth.

Franklin-Monroe (17-0) shot all the way from 15th to sixth while Sandusky St. Mary jumped from 10th to seventh. Another newcomer, East Canton (14-3) was eighth, Crestview (Richland) (13-3) ninth and Carey, despite its first loss in 17 starts, held tenth.

Woodsfield and Dalton, in the top ten all season, slipped out after setbacks Friday.

Scholastic sidelights:

Columbus East, shooting for a perfect regular season, winds up its schedule this weekend by playing host to Columbus West Friday and invading rugged Dayton Roosevelt Saturday.

In another top match Saturday, Kenton, with 15 straight victories, visits Marion Harding, which has been in and out of the top ten all season.

Granville defeated Licking Valley 65-62 last Saturday to move into a first place tie with the losers in the Licking County League. Both clubs now show identical 13-3 over-all records and 12-2 conference marks.

Southeastern of Ross County, which made it to the state Class A semifinals last year, has a 12-4 record with six of its top eight players back again. Southeastern has scored 95, 101 and 98 points in its last three outings.

Larry Baker, Graham's senior guard, is hitting 30 points a game with a fine 51.2 shooting percentage. Baker is now over 1,000 points in his three years of competition.

Bullets Win 107-98 In NBA Contest

Eight teams in the National Basketball Association might be glad to have Baltimore around this year, but the Bullets have a favorite of their own — the St. Louis Hawks.

Without the Hawks, the Bullets would be buried even deeper in the Eastern Division cellar, as they proved Monday night in Memphis, Tenn., by belting St. Louis 107-98 in the only game of the night.

The Bullets have won only 14 games this season, but three of them have come against the Hawks against only two defeats. Only Cincinnati has lost that many to the Bullets, but the Royals have beaten them five times.

Gus Johnson and Kevin Loughery took up the slack left by the absence of Don Ohl, out for the season with an injured knee, as they helped build a 50-30 first half lead. Johnson scored 13 points and Loughery 14 in the half.

When Len Wilkens, who finished with 25 points, and Bill Bridges led a St. Louis charge that got within 87-86, Johnson hit two free throws, Jack Marin added another and Johnson drove for a basket and a six-point lead. The Hawks never seriously threatened again.

UCLA Maintains Big Margin In AP Poll; Kansas Is 7th

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Nothing, it appears, not even stalling tactics can prevent Princeton from reaching a higher position and UCLA from maintaining its undisputed lead in The Associated Press' major college basketball poll.

Southern California stalled for 44 minutes against the Bruins Saturday night and lost 40-35 in overtime. Dartmouth played ball control for almost 34 minutes against the Tigers Friday night and was beaten 30-16.

While unbeaten UCLA was the unanimous choice as the No. 1 team for the fourth straight week, Princeton was one of five teams to gain ground in the latest balloting by a national panel of 35 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Bruins are followed by North Carolina and Louisville, each holding its position. Princeton, 17-1, advanced one place to fourth. Houston is fifth, followed by Western Kentucky, Kansas, Texas Western, Providence and Boston College.

North Carolina accumulated 284 points, only six more than Louisville. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second etc. The Tar Heels beat Maryland 85-77 last week while the Cardinals downed St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Houston climbed one notch to fifth after defeating Nevada Southern, 103-83. Western Kentucky zoomed from eighth to sixth after lifting its record to 16-1 with victories over Austin Peay and Middle Tennessee.

Texas Western slipped from fourth to eighth. The Miners suffered their third loss of the season, 68-55 to New Mexico State.

Providence, a 92-66 victor over Gannon, Pa. moved up one place to ninth. Boston College, 12-1, made its first appearance among the Top Ten. The Eagles replaced Vanderbilt, which beat Louisiana State and lost to Florida after holding the No. 9 spot last week.

UCLA faces Oregon State Friday and Oregon Saturday. North Carolina has three games this week, against Virginia tonight, Wake Forest Thursday and Georgia Tech Saturday. Louisville's opponents are Drake on Wednesday and Wichita State Saturday. Princeton has a couple of Ivy League games on tap, against Yale Friday and Brown Saturday.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parenthesis and points on a 10-9-etc. basis:

1. UCLA (35)	350
2. North Carolina	284
3. Louisville	278
4. Princeton	214
5. Houston	195
6. Western Kentucky	133
7. Kansas	131
8. Texas Western	123
9. Providence	63
10. Boston College	47

Goldie Sellers and Nemiah Wilson both returned kickoffs 100 yards in AFL games last fall. Both played for the Denver Broncos.

Bobsled Title Races Postponed

ALPE D'HUEZ, France (AP) —Italy's Eugenio Monti was temporarily thwarted today in his bid for a 10th title when the second run of world's two-man bobsled championships was postponed until Wednesday.

American hopes for winning the two-man title for the first time since 1936 have been all but wiped out.

Organizers of the event said unevenness on the ice coating on the vertical walls of three of the 1,000-meter chute's seven bends had developed during the night.

The second run also was postponed on Monday. There are 22 sleds from 11 countries entered.

"We cannot risk the life of the bobbers," said Amilcare Rotta of Italy, president of the international jury.

'It is almost impossible to control the steering of the sled in those curve. We must cancel today's descents," Rotta added.

Two noncompeting bobs made trial runs in the course. One turned over.

OSU Trims Northern Michigan 80-74; Youngstown Triumphs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio State and Kentucky Wesleyan figured to breeze easy in Monday night's Ohio college basketball features but both wound up breathing hard.

Northern Michigan has no Lew Alcindors but as a fill-in for UCLA at St. John Arena in Columbus the Wildcats with fellows named Les Codutl and Conrad Yagodzinski gave Ohio State plenty of trouble.

The Buckeyes finally prevailed 80-74.

Kentucky Wesleyan, the nation's No. 2 small college team, had beaten Steubenville 93-44 at Owensboro a week earlier so their trip to the Ohio city for a return match shaped up as child's play for the Panthers.

This time Wesleyan found the Barons tough customers before winning 56-49.

Youngstown, with John McElroy collecting 36 points, whipped Alderson-Broaddus 79-74 at Philippi, W. Va., in the only other game.

UCLA originally was carded at Ohio State Feb. 6 but the Bruins asked out before the season in favor of their Chicago Stadium visit. Northern Michigan was booked in their stead.

OSU never even scouted the Marquette, Mich., Wildcats before meeting the NAIA school with an eight-game winning skein against minor opponents since losing six of its first seven.

The Bucks and Northern layed even, 12-12, through seven minutes, then Ohio State moved ahead and stayed there, 39-32 at intermission and generally by 9 to 11 points most of the second half.

But the upstarts clawed back and at the 1:12 mark a long shot by Coduti—who totaled 24 points—and two free throws by Yagodzinski made it a scary 76-72.

Two free throws by Bill Hoslet and two by Jerry Tischer finally cinched the Bucks' 10th victory in 16 games

Track Feud Between NCAA, AAU Is Starting Again

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The roster of stars is shrinking and the old feuds are breaking out again, but there WILL be a U.S. Track and Field Federation indoor track meet here Friday.

The federation, an arm of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in its fight with the Amateur Athletic Union, finally conceded that Gerry Lindgren, the distance running star from Washington State, would not be in the meet.

The reason according to the federation — Lindgren has allergy problems and is curbing his schedule.

The reason according to Washington State officials — Lindgren, who ran a far-from-allergic 8:31.6 two-mile last Saturday, just isn't interested. Contrary to federation statements, he isn't entered and never was, the officials say.

Lindgren's race in Seattle Saturday was the third fastest indoor two mile in the books.

Also out of the meet is Charley Greene, NCAA spring champ from Nebraska, who is recovering from a muscle pull suffered two weeks ago.

Martin McGrady, indoor 600-yard record holder from Central, Ohio, State, is doubtful because of a foot injury and middle-distance star Richard Urbina of Georgetown is probably out because of a preference for a meet in Los Angeles on Saturday.

The federation meet is not sanctioned by the AAU, which claims foreign athletes — whether students in American colleges or not — can't compete. The same goes for Americans who are not in college, say the AAU.

Neill Duggan, the sub-4-minute miler from England, already has pulled out on the orders of the British Athletic Association and other noncollegians may follow suit.

The federation says sanctioning rules are not in effect while a federal panel is trying to arrange a truce in the matter. The AAU says business as usual.

That leaves Bob Seagren, indoor pole-vault record holder from the University of Southern California, and runners Tommie Smith and Lee Evans of San Jose, as the big attractions in the meet.

Vanderbilt Tops Georgia

Tennessee Whips Louisiana State

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Georgia almost stymied Vanderbilt with the Scintillating Stall — basketball's latest craze — but the Bulldogs' slowdown tactics backfired when their offense virtually stood still.

The Bulldogs fought the stronger Commodores to a standstill at the end of regulation time, but the visitors put a stop to the fooling around in overtime and pulled out a 51-41 victory Monday night.

The stall burst into prominence last weekend when two high-ranking members of the Top Ten ran into the slowdown strategies of their weaker opponents.

The Top Ten teams won, though, Princeton beating Dartmouth 30-16 Friday night and UCLA trimming Southern California 40-35 in overtime Saturday night.

The object of the strategy is that if the stronger team can't get the ball because the weaker team doesn't shoot it, the stronger team can't score too many points.

In Monday night's example, the Bulldogs had only a 21-19 deficit at halftime. They reversed that score in the second half and wound up with a 40-40 tie at the end of regulation time.

Then Georgia hit the overtime period. Bob Warren hit two quick field goals for Vanderbilt, and the Commodore defense did the job the rest of the way, holding the Bulldogs to a single point.

The victory enabled Vanderbilt to remain in a tie for first place in the Southeastern Conference with Tennessee, which whipped Louisiana State 76-59 behind Ron Widby's 31-point performance.

In another overtime contest, sixth-ranked Western Kentucky trimmed Murray 88-79 for its 17th straight triumph. Don Duncan's three-point play for Murray with 13 seconds to play tied the game 73-73 and sent it into overtime. But the Hilltoppers then pulled away after Clem Haskins hit two baskets.

Fifth-ranked Houston originally was slated to play Lamar Tech, but the game was cancelled to give Houston a break in its busy schedule.

Providence, the only other member of the Top Ten which played, also was victorious. The ninth-ranked Friars brought their record to 14-3 by defeating St. Bonaventure 80-65 as Mike Riordan scored 25 points and pulled down 14 rebounds.

The nation's No. 1 small college team, S. Illinois, knocked off Centenary 79-63 while Marshall, the team that dropped Toledo from the unbeatan ranks Saturday night, fell to Morehead 112-98 in double overtime.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: A close friend of ours came under discussion last night and someone said, "I wonder what Ann Landers would say about this?" So I'm writing to find out.

The man we were talking about is a gifted, warm-hearted guy who has a host of friends who adore him. Yet his whole life has been a litany of inadequacy and failure. He has had three catastrophic marriages and is headed for the fourth.

In spite of extraordinary ability, he has blown some choice professional opportunities. Colleagues with infinitely less talent remained safely ensconced in their jobs and this truly able guy winds up unemployed.

Can it be that he is, as some insist, just one of the world's unluckiest so-and-so's? I'm beginning to wonder. What do you say?—FORUM OF THE TWELVE CEASARS.

Dear Forum: Each of us knows someone who fits the dscription — a warm-herrted, talented person with a messed-up life.

Bad luck? I doubt it. Individuals who attract trouble and repeatedly fail, subconsciously set themselves up for trouble and failure. Their self-destructive drives propel them into situations they know will end in disaster.

These severely neurotic people need professional counseling to gain insight into their self-destructive behavior. Those who reject help do so because self-examination is too painful.

Rat Bait

Dear Ann: My best friend is making the same mistake I made and I feel guilty because I introduced her to the rat.

Why don't women realize that when a man takes a girl to a motel room, he'll always tell her she's the most wonderful girl in the world and he wants to marry her? What elee CAN he say, for heaven's sake? Even when the girl knows "Mr. Rat" has had dozens of other affairs she is convinced he lied to the others but is truthful with her.

When my friend repeated the sweet nothings "Mr. Rat" whispered in her ear it was like seeing a movie for the second time. I knew what the next line would be.

What can I do to make this foolish girl understand she will end up in the junk heap with me and a dozen others?—X. PERIENCE.

Dear X.: Save your breath to cool your soup. Lovely.

Some people stubbornly refuse to take anybody's word for anything. Have you ever noticed the fingerprints around a sing that says "Wet Paint"?

Travel Companion

Dear Ann: When a man invites a woman to go on a motor trip with him because he enjoys her company, is it proper for him to expect her to share in the expenses for the car, meals and entertainment? Of course she would pay for her own room.

I'm considering taking a trip with a man who has not mentioned expenses and I think we ought to have everything settled before we start. I might as well tell you that I'm opposed to paying for anything other than my room because there's a romance involved and I don't believe in spoiling a man by letting him have everything for nothing.

Dear Roch: I don't know what you mean by "everything", but I think you'd better stay home.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Let Child Set Pace In Learning to Speak

Dr. Brandstadt

Every child does not learn to talk at the same age. Some say a few words at 11 or 12 months and some say very little until they are three or more. Most children fall somewhere between these extremes. If your child is not talking by the time he is 14 months old you should have his hearing checked. If it is normal, relax. Don't try to pressure him by refusing to give him something he points at until he names it. If you want to teach your dog to sit up and beg, do so, but your child is not a dog.

The more a child likes you, the more he will want to be like you, so talk to him in a calm pleasant voice as much of the time when you are with him as you can. Some children never do say single words but at the age of about three they start talking in well - rounded sentences. It is said that Albert Einstein was over three years old before he started to talk. His parents were plenty worried but he made out all right!

In some children undue pressure in other matters, such as toilet training, will make them hesitate to start talking. Their watchword seems to be: "Let's lick one problem at a time. Gee, mom, I can't learn everything all at once!"

Q — What should be done with a 7 - year - old child who is nervous and high-strung?

A — Nervousness is a vague term that may indicate restlessness, easy fatigability, overexcitability, short span of attention or timidity without apparent reason. In some children these symptoms may be a result of being pushed beyond their mental or physical capacity, competition with older brothers or sisters or a reflection of anxiety in the parents.

The first step in treatment is to try to find the cause and correct it. It is important to let the child know that he is loved irrespective of his accomplishments and to arrange a well balanced program of work, rest and play as well as a well - balanced diet. If the child is too serious, try to inject a little gaiety into the family life.

Q — Last April my 22 month - old daughter died of meningococcemia. It took her off after only six hours of illness. What caused it and is there any cure for it?

A — In this disease meningococci, a type of bacteria, invade the blood stream. Although meningococcal infections are generally amenable to treatment with penicillin, the tragic type known as fulminating infection leaves everyone, including the doctor, utterly helpless because it works so fast.

Soldiers to Get Pinup, Address of Girl They Saw In News Photo

NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-four fighting men in Vietnam will get the address of the miniskirted lassie they saw stepping daintily over a Manhattan snowbank. Not only her address — pinup pictures too. And maybe even a visit from the gal herself.

It all goes back to last Dec. 27, when the snow in Manhattan wasn't quite as high as an elephant's eye, but high enough.

On that date, a New York Daily News photographer snapped a picture of an attractive girl making her way through the snows of Central Park South.

Came a letter to the newspaper from Sgt. Cesar A. Soriano, spokesman for the mortar platoon of Company D, 2nd Battalion, 1st Infantry, 196th Light Infantry Brigade, serving in Vietnam.

Soriano wrote: "Pertaining to your issue of Tuesday, Dec. 27 appears a picture of a young lady by the name of Tina Scala. We have been day after day admiring the picture of the above mentioned brunette."

Tina's photo, Soriano said, produced an overpowering urge on behalf of himself and his 43 buddies to correspond with her, "thereby satisfying the many hearts that are throbbing in high gear."

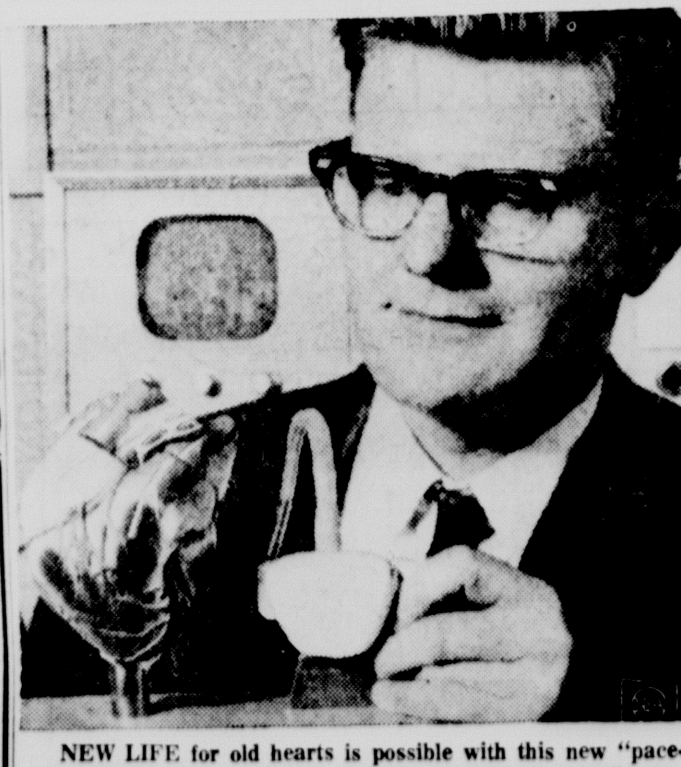
Delight showing in her blue-green eyes — the product of her Italian-Irish background, Tina added, "I'm so — how do you say it — it has really hit me."

Miss Scala, whose measurements are 36-24-36, said she would be happy to send letters and pinup shots to her fans in Vietnam. Moreover, she added, she would like to travel to the war zone with an entertainment troupe.



NEW LIFE for old hearts is possible with this new "pacemaker", smallest available in this country. Surgically implanted, it gives out electrical pulses to stimulate weakened or damaged heart muscles so as to restore and maintain a normal heart beat. More than 15,000 Americans now have their hearts "paced" by tiny machines such as this GE model shown next to a model heart.

'Whiz Kid' Prefers Astrophysics to Dates

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Wilczek, at 15, is a quiet scholar who prefers astrophysics to dates. He's one of 40 finalists in the annual Westinghouse Scientific Talent Search.

While most teen-agers are having fun on the weekends, Frank is engrossed in astrophysics, mathematics and philosophy. He relaxes by listening to classical records, his favorite pastime.

"Once in a while I go to an occasional party," he says. "I'm tied up every Saturday taking courses in mathematics and astrophysics in Columbia University's science honors program."

Frank will be 16 years old on May 15 and a few weeks later will be graduated from Martin Van Buren High School in Queens. He is graduating at such a young age because he skipped the third and eighth grades.

"I hope to attend the University of Chicago and study mathematics and physics," he says. "They both are interesting rather than both being related."

While being a long-hair record collector, Frank doesn't wear his hair long like many young people.

"It's silly," he says, "and it's silly to object. I'm completely indifferent."

The mod style of dress, he says, is "Horrible. A fad they're trying to put over."

Frank is 5 feet 7½ inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. His talent search project that will take him into the finals in Washington in March was an attempt to relate semigroups and groups in the field of algebra.

"I got really involved in mathematics," he says, "due to a certain teacher I had in my sophomore year. He got me very interested in it. I really don't know how I picked philosophy up."

Frank says he spends one or two hours on his school work at home each night.

"I do things independently," he says. "I read on my own in mathematics and philosophy. I take up topics I'm interested in."

His father, Frank J. Wilczek, is in the electronics field, in research and development. Frank has one brother, 10.

Philosophizing about his generation of teen-agers, Frank says "juvenile delinquents are amoral. They are a very small number."

"In general," he adds, "you can't specify this high school generation as better or worse than any other. The generalization of such a large number of people, I don't think can be valid.

"I think it's excellent that students are finally speaking up on things that concern them, things like the free speech movement. I think it was a very good effort. When it turned to filthy speech, I lost my sympathy for it, but I think the original goals and efforts were fine."
